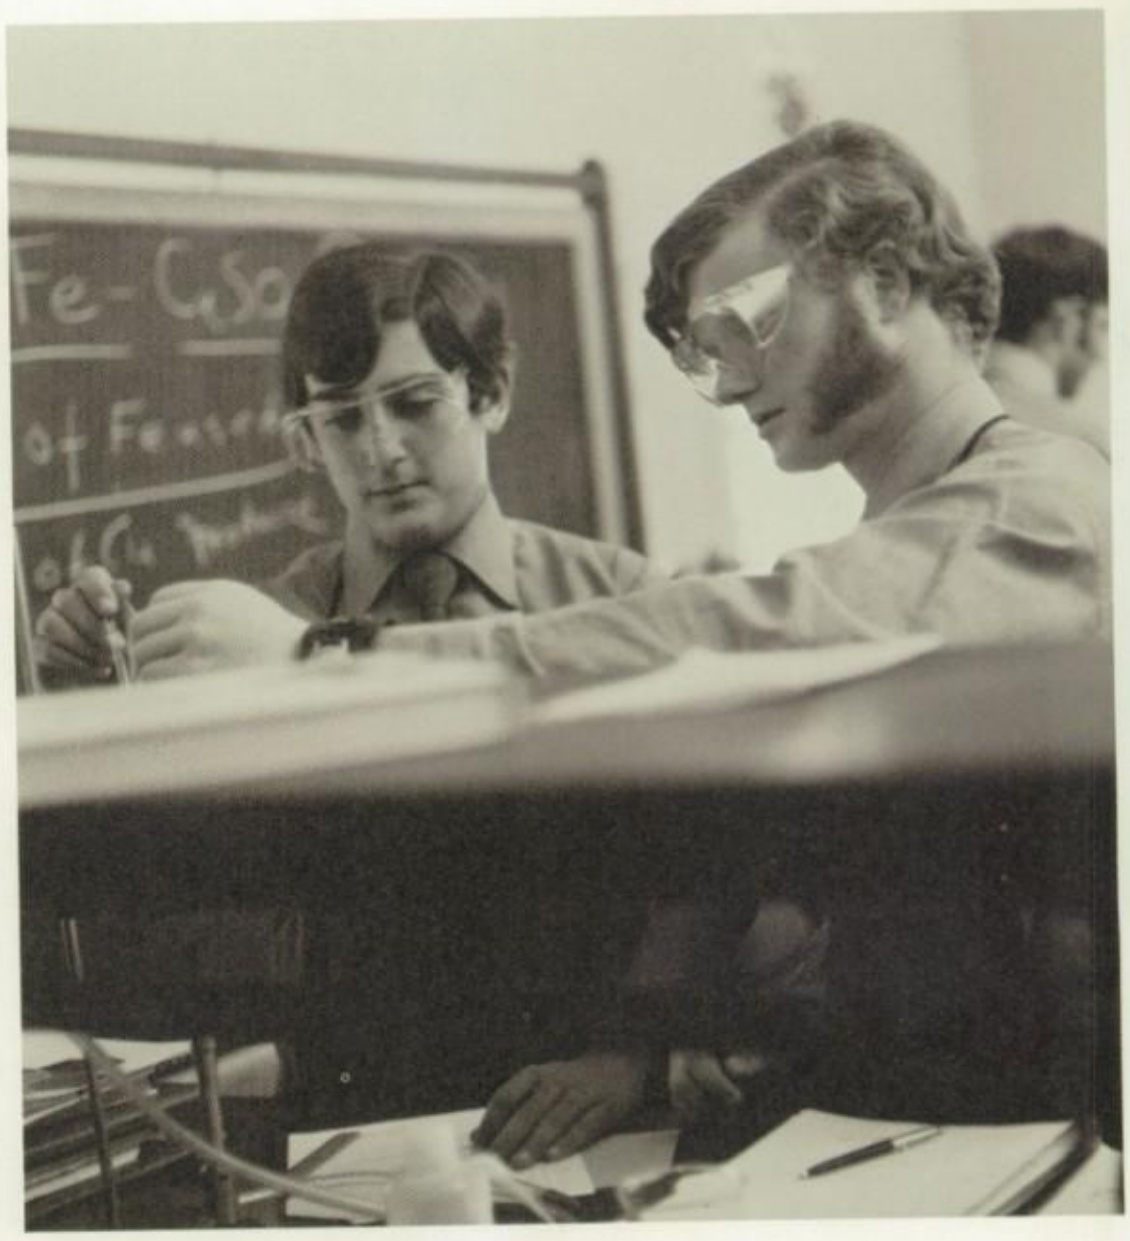
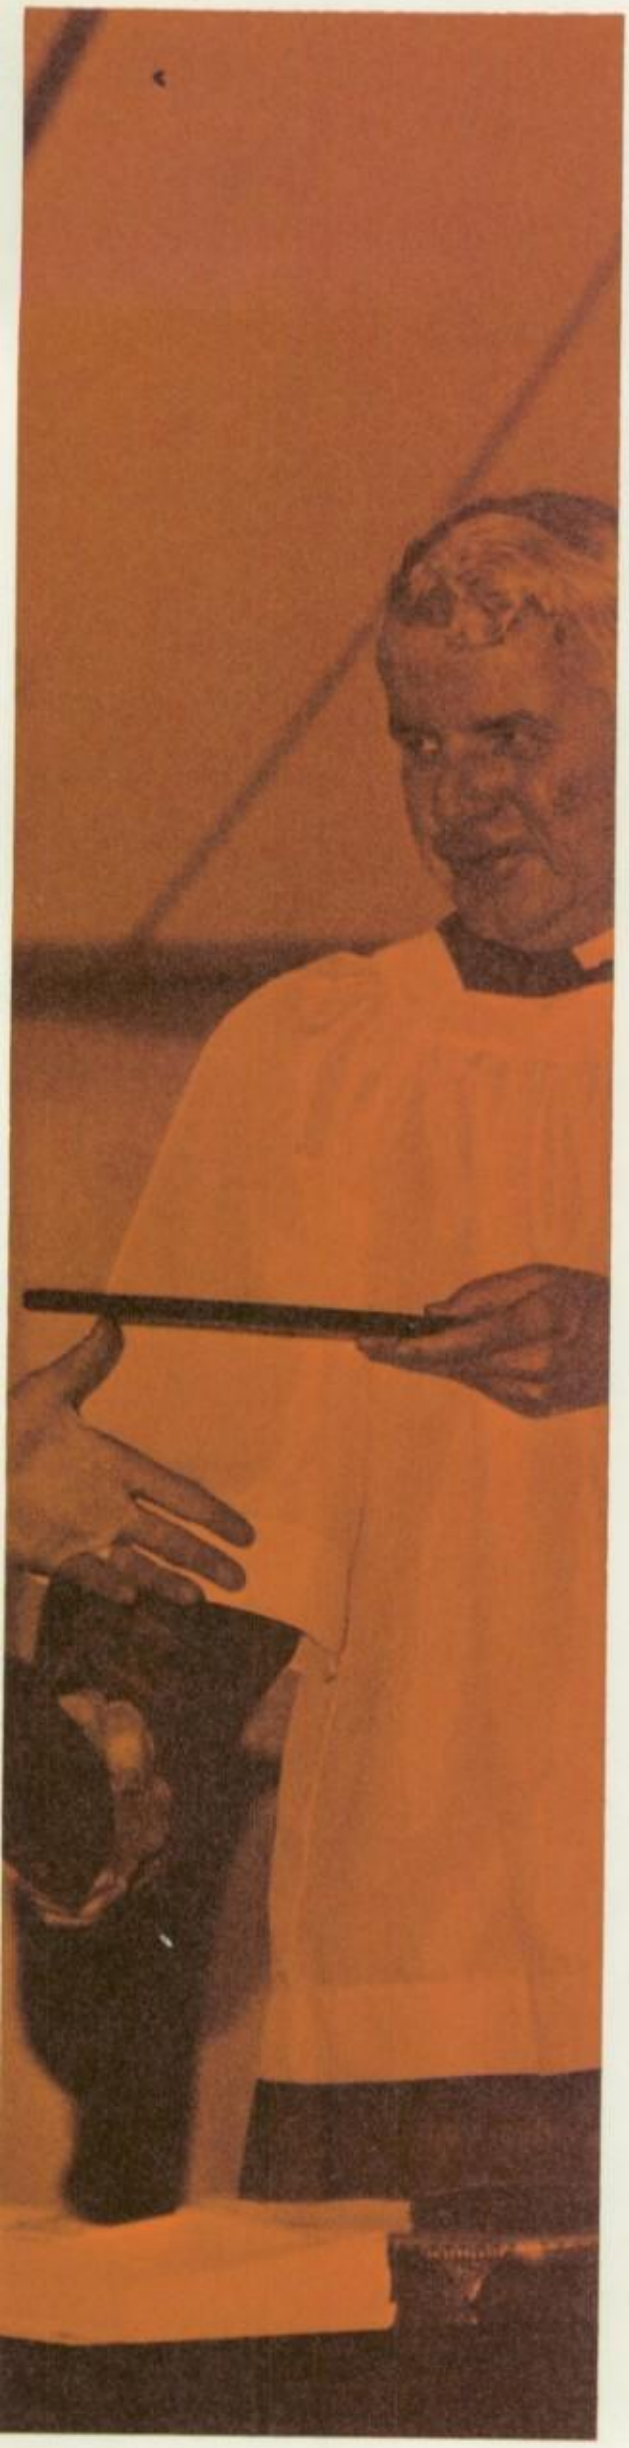
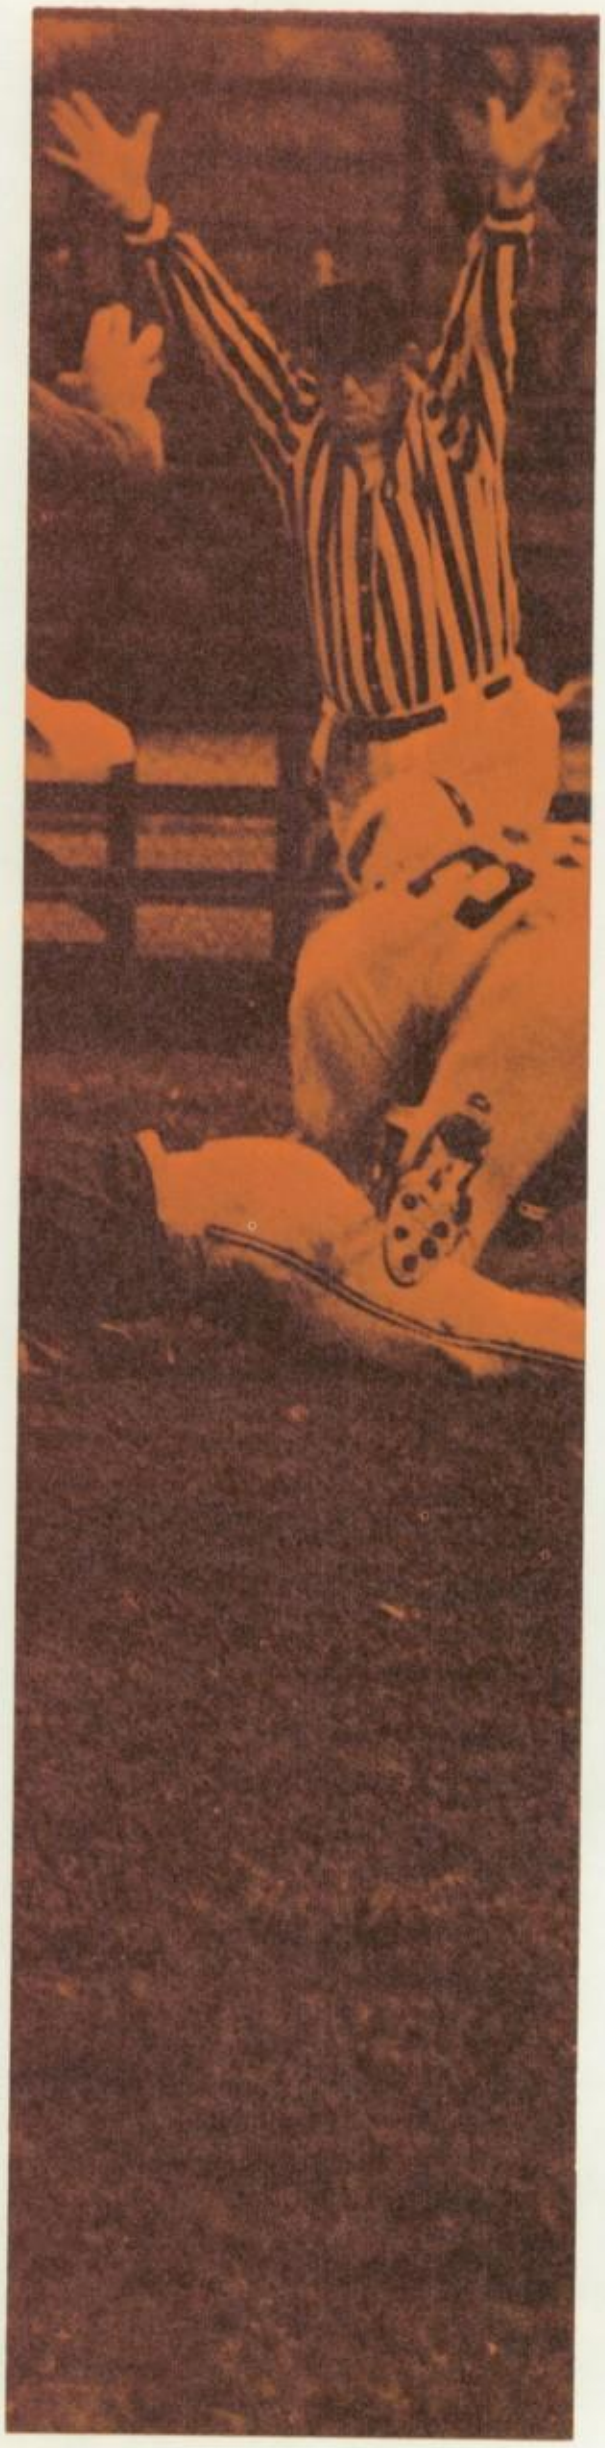
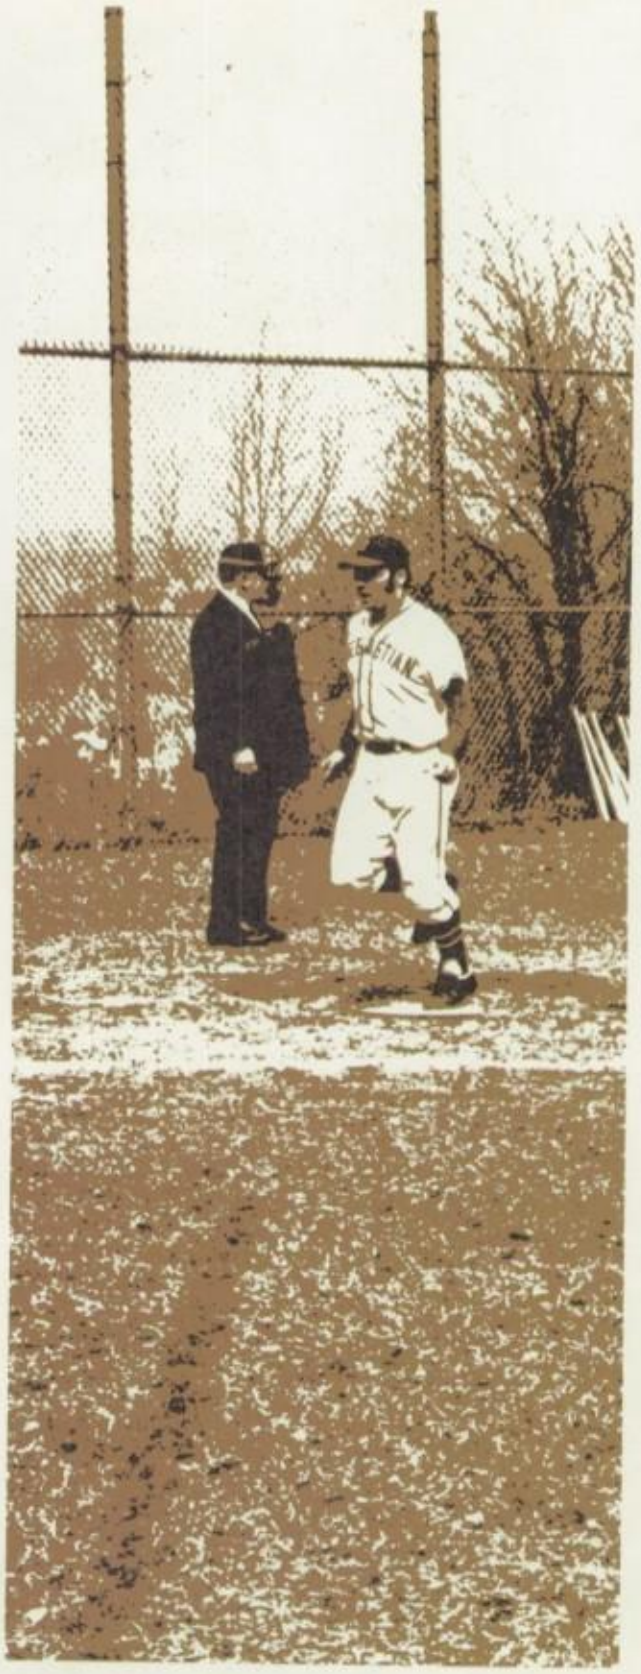
St. Sebs' is...

A place to strive...



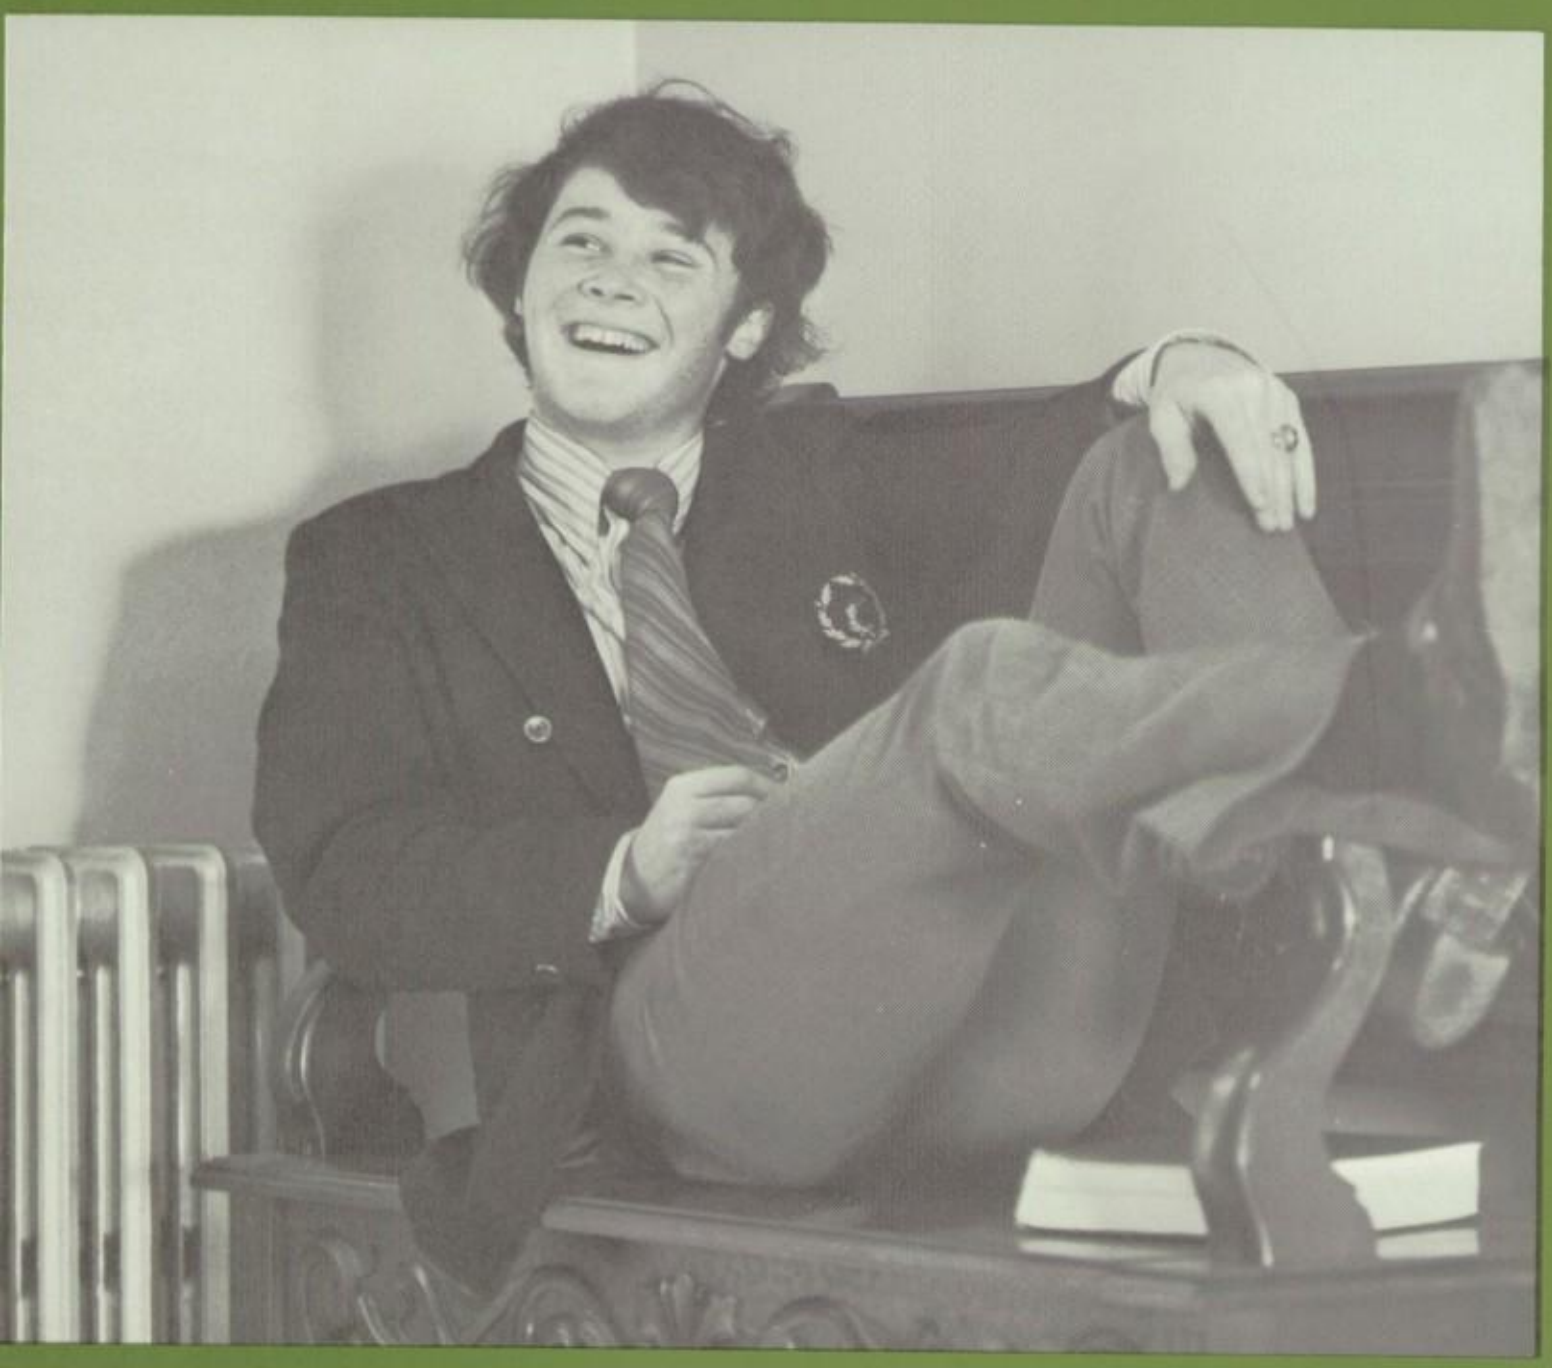






To achieve. . .

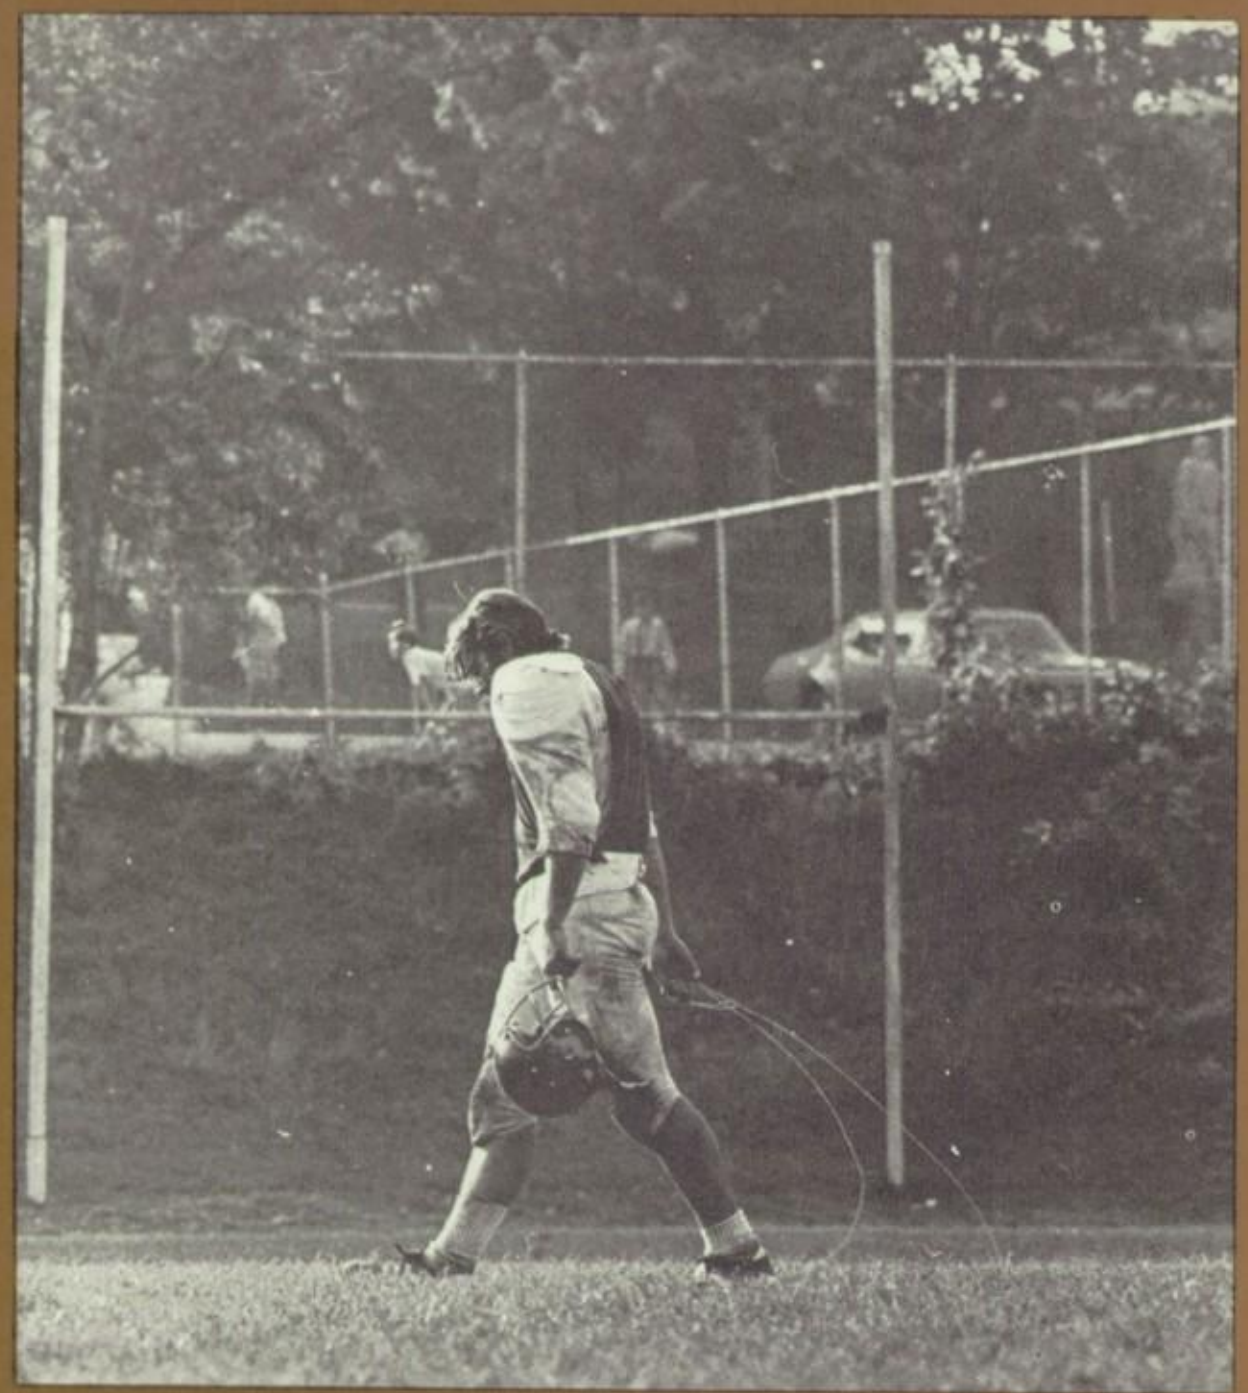
A place
To work,



To relax,

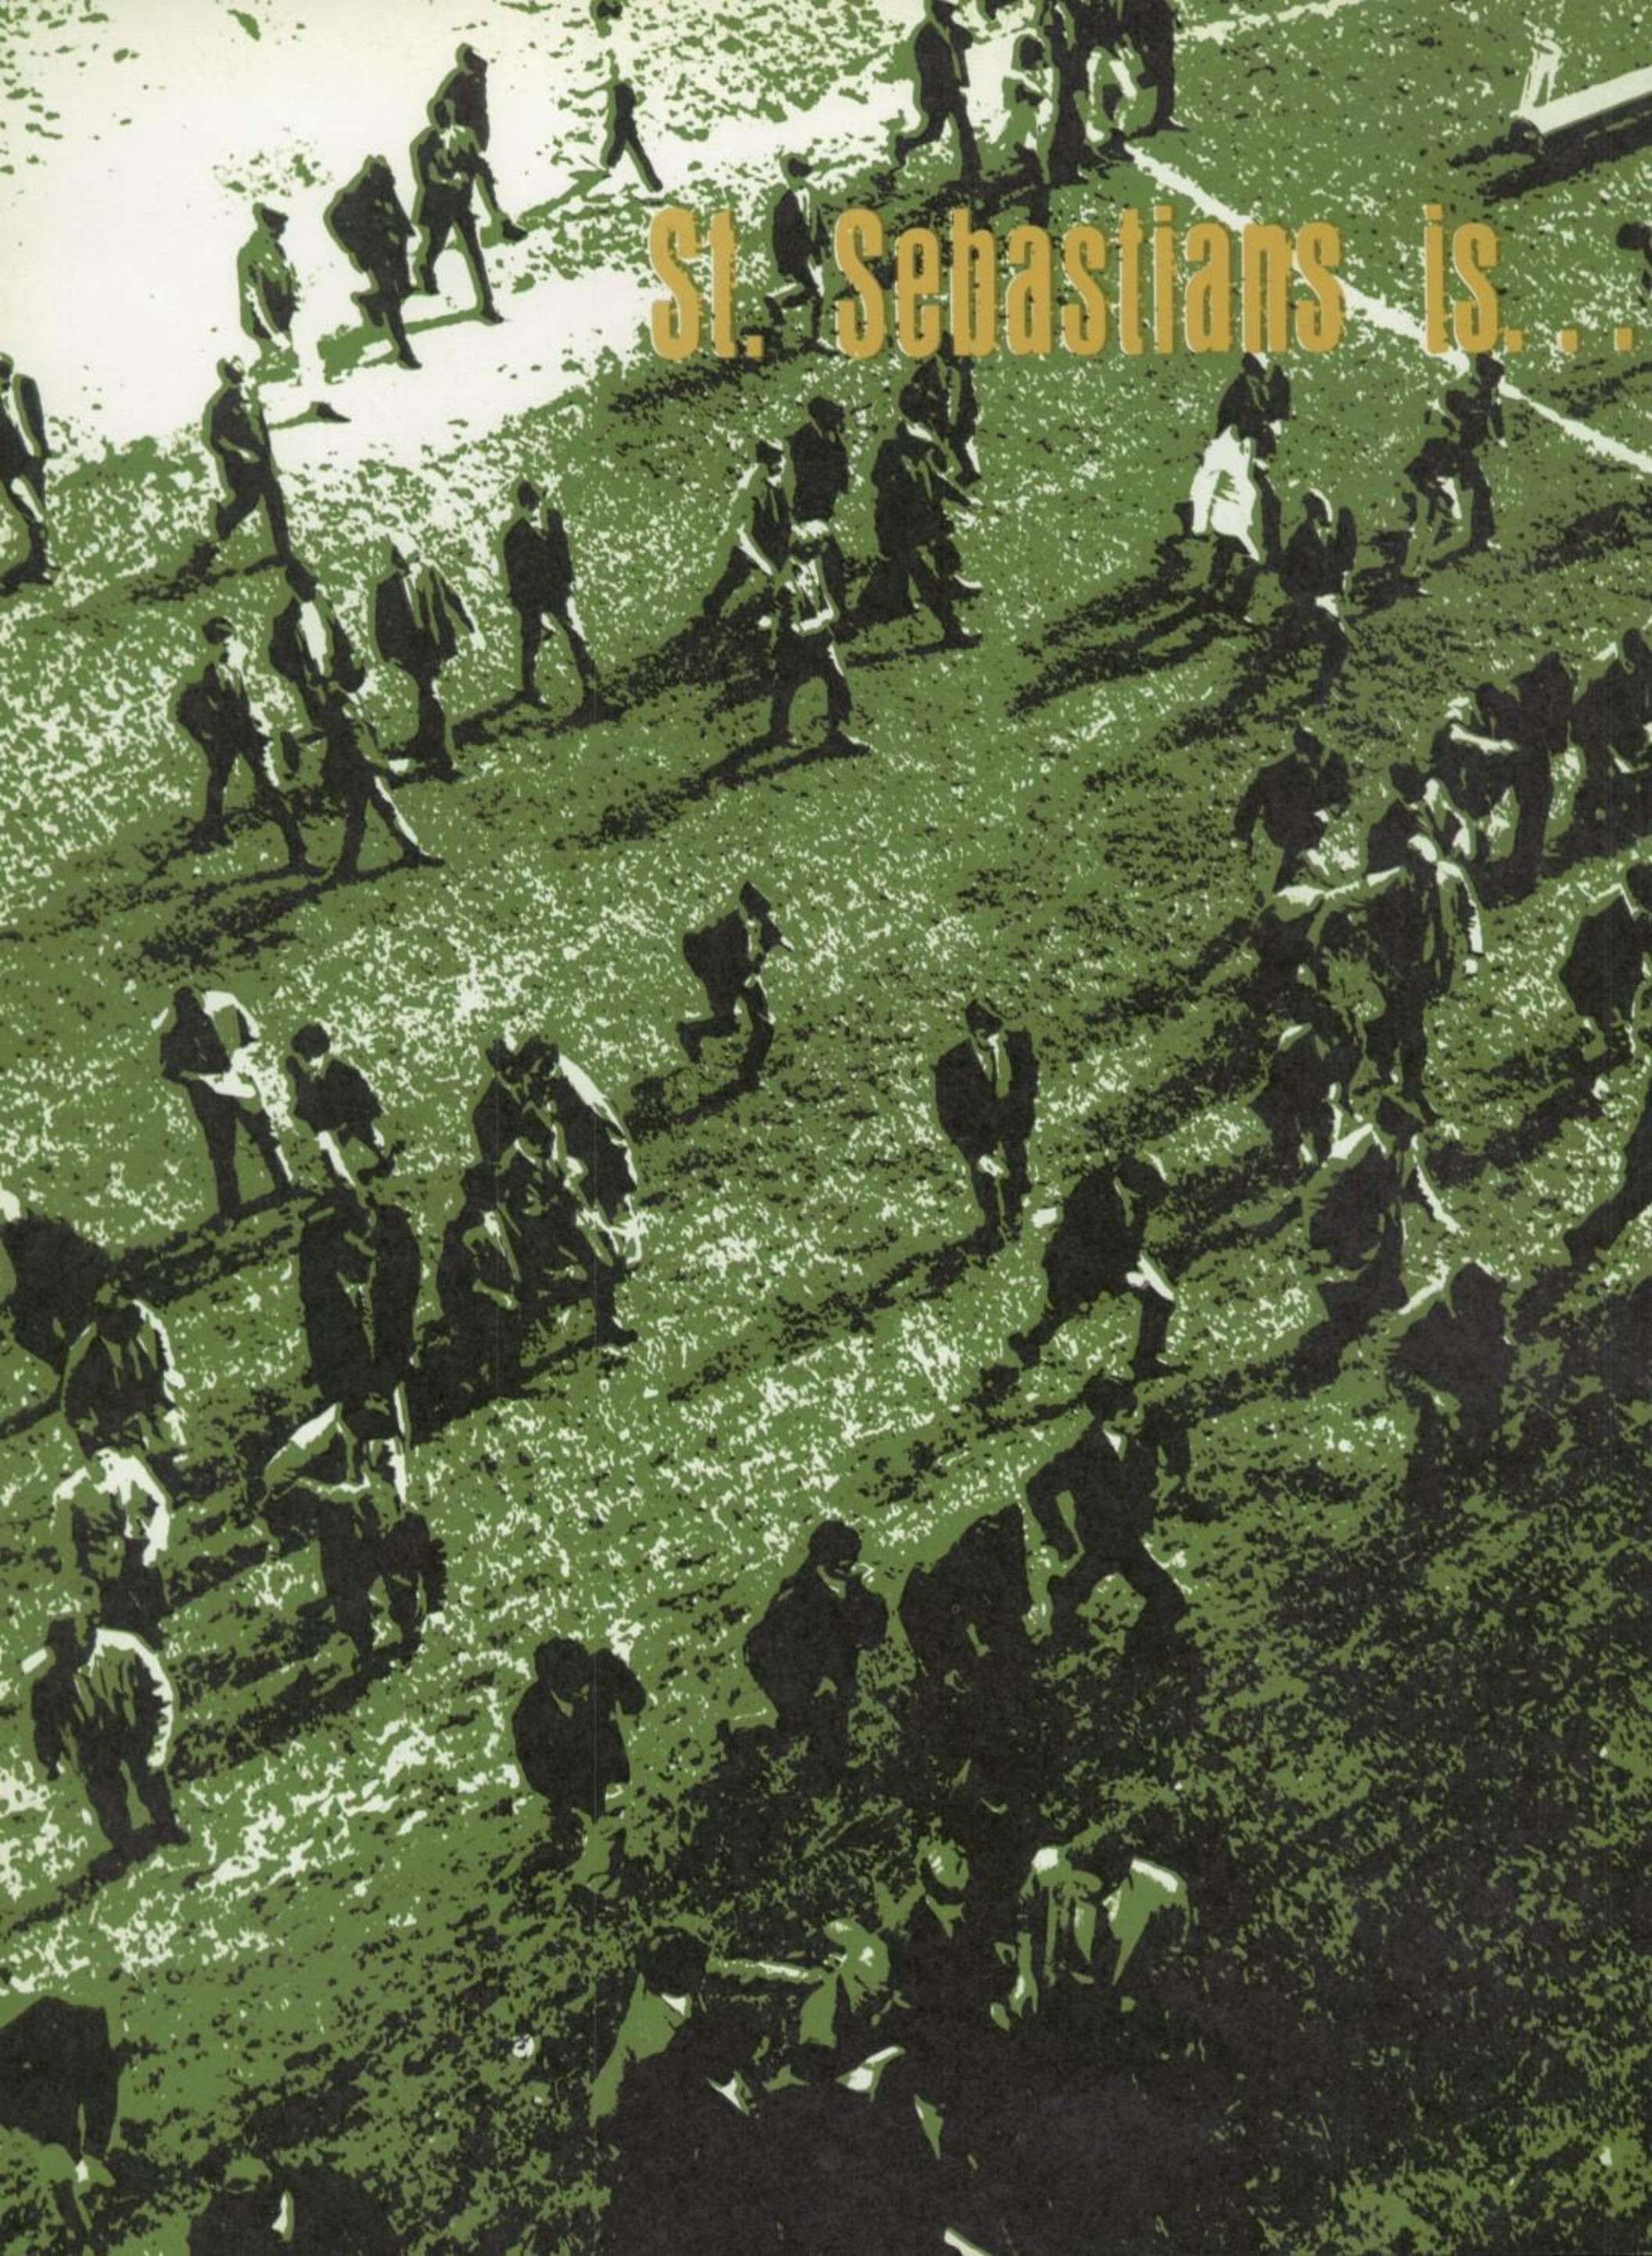
To think,

To pray,



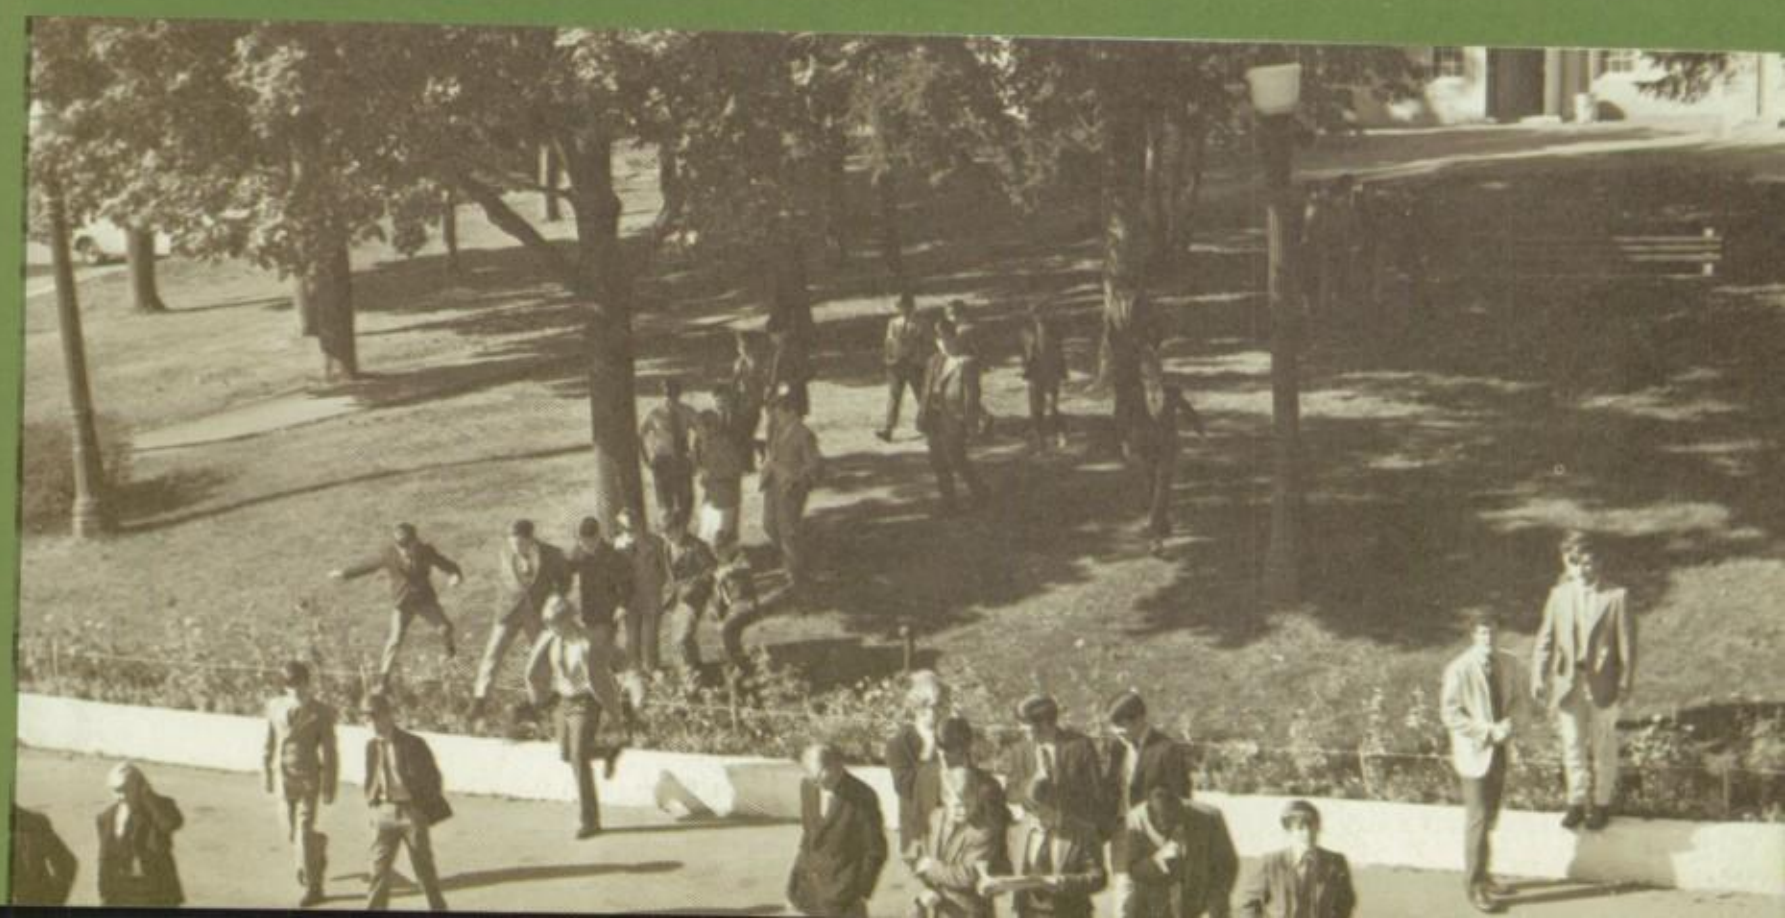
To grieve,

To rejoice,

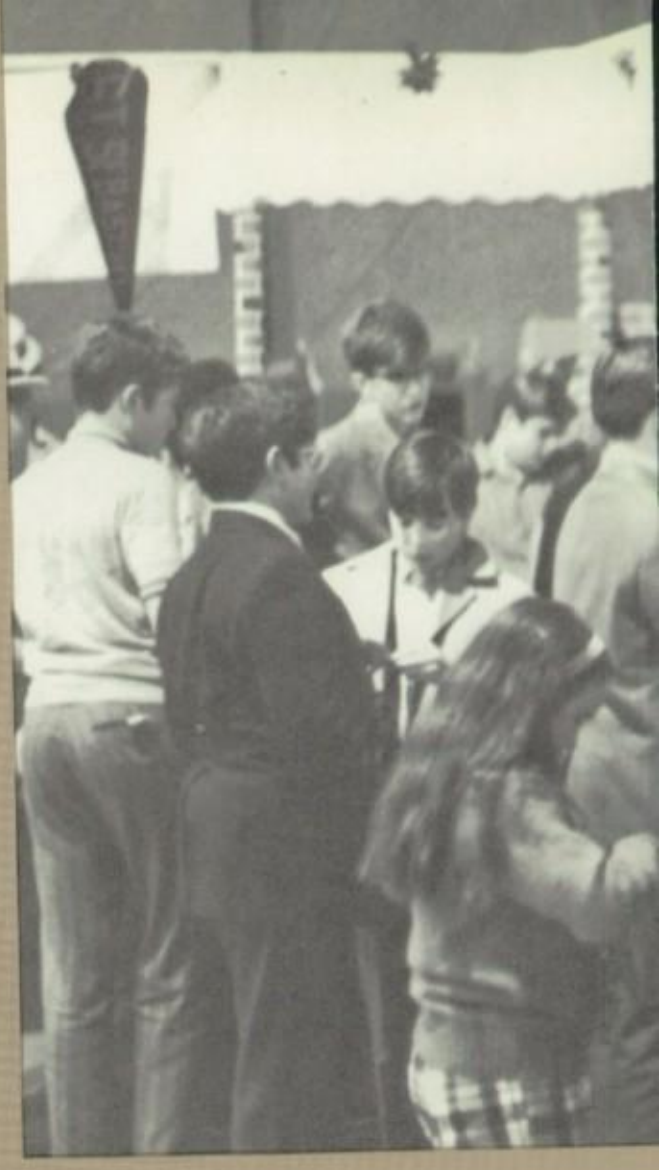


St. Sebastians is...

A place to do all of this.



TOGETHER



"And God will wipe away every tear from their eyes. And death shall be no more; neither shall there be mourning, nor crying, nor pain any more, for the former things have passed away. And he who was sitting on the throne said, 'Behold; I make all things new!' "

(Apocalypse, Chap. 21, V.4-5).

The lamented Cardinal Archbishop of Boston was a man of many contradictions – some within minutes of one another. He was a man of not a few controversial words and actions – some bitter, some bewildering, some almost amusing to himself and to us who loved him. But one single, over-riding, constant purpose integrated his entire life and to that abiding constancy he was totally committed unto death.

That one constant purpose was his determination, stubborn and untiring, to serve, with whatever genius or frailty, the one, holy, universal, apostolic Church, in communion with Rome, and to do everything else in his power, at all times, in all places, on every level, to advance that kingdom of God of which he knew the visible, organized Church to be the beginning and the principal agent on earth.

To this unchanging motivation, he was faithful all the days of his life and though all the mysteries – joyful, sorrowful and glorious – of that life otherwise shot through with superficial contradictions and occasional controversy.

On that wonderful day, so recent and so proud, your applause of the dying man helped him to persevere, joyful and glorious, to the end, all sorrow being left behind. Your applause of his successor was heard around the world. It told our new Archbishop to fear not, that the way will be made straight, the wilderness will be broken open with new paths and new directions, and that, as God was with our Fathers, so will He be with us. God now wipes away all tears from the eyes of Richard Cushing, since death for him shall be no more, nor pain nor evil any more, for the former things have passed away – and by that same power God gives to Archbishop Medeiros the full share of divine power needed to make all things new again!

This is the point of the Church; there is not other. This is the point of the apostolic succession; there is no other. This is the point of the priesthood; there is no other. This is the point of the Christian fact and of all the people who share it or whose lives it touches; there is no other that matters enough to mention. This is why all mysteries – joyful, sorrowful and glorious – blend in the exultant cry: "I know that my Redeemer liveth, and in the last day I shall rise out of the earth . . . any in my flesh I shall see my God!"

Confirmed in this faith, we commend this valiant newsmaker to history, this holy man, zealous priest, uncommon prelate to the God who gave joy to his youth, the Christ who consoled his age, the angels and saints with whom he will share eternal life, undying love!

DEDICATION

Sometimes,

When I'm low and

My problems are weighing

Me down,

I think

About my friends who

Are having the Same troubles,

The same cares.

So I talk things

Over with

My friends and

It's not so bad.

A friend can do that for me,

Help me over a tough time.

Because Life's an

Opponent

Who's trying to beat

Us all. But

We can win instead if

We remember we have

Friends to help

Us, if we remember

we are not Alone.

Sometimes I'm right and I can be wrong
My own beliefs are in my song
The butcher, the banker, the drummer and then
Makes no difference what group I'm in
I am everyday people,
And different strokes for different folks
we got to live together
I am no better and neither are you
We are the same whatever we do you love me – you hate you know me and then
You can't figure out the bag I'm in
I am everyday people,
There is a long hair that doesn't like the short hair
For bein' such a rich one that will not help the poor one
And different strokes for different folks
we got to live together
And different strokes for different folks
I am everyday people

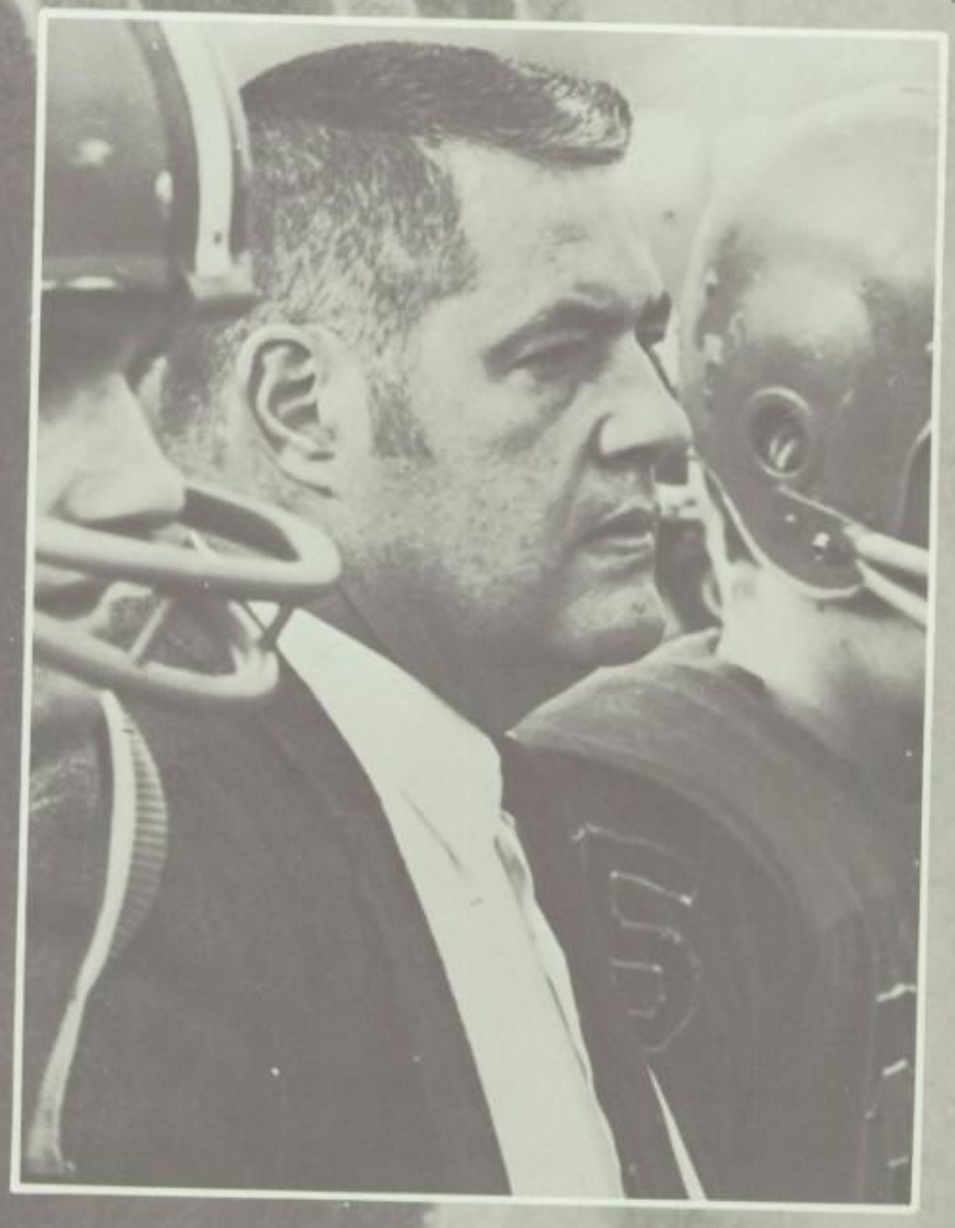
FOOTBALL 1970



Henry F. O'Brien's football career began when he was a student at Arlington High School, and since that time he has left many of his athletic talents throughout Eastern Massachusetts. At Arlington High School Mr. O'Brien received special recognition for being a "scholar athlete." His senior year in high school, he was faced with many offers to play college football, and he chose to take his many talents to Boston College. There, Mr. O'Brien was chosen to be a member of the "All New England" squad.

After college Mr. O'Brien wished to enlighten others, not only with his athletic abilities and knowledge, but also with his mental knowledge. Mr. O'Brien received a position in the Waltham School System to teach Mathematics. Shortly after, he was asked to undertake the position of assistant coach on the Somerville High School football team.

It was not until former St. Sebastian's coach Rev. Charles McCoy, enlisted in the United States Navy, that St. Sebastian's became aware of Mr. O'Brien's skills. In 1966 Mr. Henry O'Brien became the head football coach at St. Sebastian's. He brought along with him, his philosophy of football. He taught the boys that football is no longer a game, but is a sport in which one develops and displays his coordination and his God-given talents. It was because of this that the students began to recognize him as a man as well as a coach. Mr. O'Brien did not slave drive any team that he ever coached, because he did not have to. He taught his teams that it was much more fun to win, but that every individual had to work to gain that victory.

In a five year career at St. Sebastian's, Mr. O'Brien brought the school two undefeated, untied teams. He also developed and produced many outstanding athletes. He also developed the boys, not only as an athlete, but as a boy becoming a man.

This year Coach O'Brien has received the position as Vice Principal in a Waltham school. The Waltham School Committee asked him to terminate his coaching career at St. Sebastian's.

St. Sebastian's has not only suffered a loss in the athletic department but also a loss in producing "fine Christian gentlemen."

OFFENSE

COACHING STAFF

An assistant coach lives in a sort of anonymity, with only the fruit of his labor to attend to his hard work. And yet no team, no matter how good a head coach, can be expected to succeed without good assistant coaching – men who will concentrate on the basics so that the whole team may function efficiently and successfully.

We at St. Sebastian's have been blessed with assistant coaches of a unique caliber, and this year's staff was indicative of this. Mr. Paul Costello and Mr. George Norcross are two of the best ever to work on the Hill. Under their watchful eyes and through their patient work, one team survived many bad breaks to emerge with pride. This was especially true with the defensive squad of our football team which developed into one of the best ever in the history of the school, and ended the season with the no. 2 defensive record in New England.

We of the 1970 St. Sebastian's football team owe much to these two men for dedicating so much to us.

Jay Fulham, member of 1970 Football Team.

Captain Greg Cronin

On Monday morning November 16, just two days after the football season ended, 45 candidates reported to hockey coach Henry T. Lane. The spirited early morning workouts lasted for ten days and the squad was whittled down to twenty players. After some adjustment Mr. Lane, came up with an extremely fine line of captain Greg Cronin, and juniors Jackson Walsh and Rich Scimone. The second line was composed of senior Jay Harney at center, flanked by senior Gleason Gallagher and junior Peter White. The defensive pairs were juniors Charles Burke and Mark Rogan, and junior Tom Donahue and sophomore David Gately. The goaltending chores were handled primarily by senior Brian Campbell, with juniors Steve McManama and Richard Tierney both seeing action. There was plenty of bench strength in defensemen John Cail and Bob Sweeney, and Forwards Jim Coogan, George Morrissey, Kevin Myles, Brendan O'Connell and Rocket Mulroy. At the start of the season two extra incentives were added: The fact that St. Sebastian's would be in the private school league in 1971-72, and the invitation to play in a Christmas tournament sponsored jointly by St. Mark's and Middlesex.

On December 2, the Arrows opened their season against St. Paul's and in a fine defensive effort St. Sebastian's prevailed 3-1. Ten days later we ventured down to the Cape to play Barnstable. Paced by Greg Cronin's two goals and Jay Harney's three assists we were once again on top by a score 5-2. On December 18, we opened up in the Middlesex-St. Mark's Christmas Tournament against St. Mark's and blanked them 4-0 behind Brian Campbell's 11 save shutout. Two hours later we played St. George's and after falling behind 2-1 came out flying and gained a hard earned 6-2 victory. At 10 o'clock the next morning we faced an extremely strong Middlesex team in the tournament final. We were worn out from the previous day's action and bowed 5-0 to finish in second place.

We got back on the winning road a week later against Winchester as Rick Scimone's hat trick sparked a 6-3 victory. However, the next three weeks proved to be disastrous as we lost 4 our of 5 games. The defeats came at the hands of private school rivals Belmont Hill and Noble and Greenough, both by 5-2 scores, Barnstable High School 7-6, and Tabor Academy 7-5; the lone win came against Cambridge Latin 5-1. After the Tabor loss a lengthy team meeting was held and it seemed to fire up the whole squad. We regained our confidence and sparked by Greg Cronin's three goals and one assist defeated Watertown 4-2. Three days later Brian Campbell made 30 saves for his second shutout of the year as he blanked Winchester 3-0. Greg Cronin's three goals and 2 assists and Jackson Walsh's goal and 3 assists paced us to a 7-5 victory over Milton Academy and Steve McManama's fine goal-tending blanked Wellesley 5-0.

On February 5, one of the most exciting games of the year was played against hard-hitting Thayer. With less than a minute left we were down 4-3 so we pulled Soupy Campbell and added a sixth skater and with 42 seconds left Jackson Walsh gained us a 4-4 tie with a high backhand shot. The next two games were relatively easy, and all Greg Cronin the senior sensation, could gather was 2 goals and 4 assists in a 8-4 win over Governor Dummer and 4 goals and 2 assists in a 8-0 victory over Brooks, in which Steve McManama registered his second shutout of the year. We then faced Browne and Nichols, to whom we had lost the last 3 years in a row, and paced by Rick Scimone and Jay Harney who each potted two goals, we came up with a 6-3 win. Then on February 19, we had our biggest game of the year, Middlesex. Two days earlier Middlesex had defeated Belmont Hill for the Private School League title and sported a fine 12-2 record. However, we were really psyched up for this game. Greg Cronin scored 3 goals and an assist and Steve McManama was phenomonal in kicking out 25 shots as we upset a stunned home team 4-1, in what Coach Lane called one of the greatest wins in the school's history. It was a great team victory as the second line did a fantastic job forechecking, Charles Burke and Mark Rogan were very tough on defense, and Jay Harney and Peter White successfully killed off many penalties.

BASKETBALL 1970-71

The opening of the 1970-71 basketball season at St. Sebastian's saw th Arrows get a new head in Mr. Grady O'Malley. He succeeded th well-known Fr. Gilmartin who stepped down after being the Arrow mente for many years. Grady, a graduate of St. Seb's and Manhattan College, w perhaps the greatest player ever to play under Fr. Gilmartin. He led th Arrows to two straight New England Prep School Championships in 19 and 1965. After high school, he performed brilliantly for four years as high-scoring forward at Manhattan College, earning the captaincy in h senior year. Fr. Gilmartin's finest protege reached new heights for an Arro ballplayer when he spent most of the 1969-70 season with the N.B.A. A lanta Hawks. As a coach, Grady is almost as good as he is a ballplaye Being very demanding, he expects nothing short of perfection from his bal players. He is respected by all who are connected with the basketball tea in any way and is truly a credit to the school athletic department.

Although his debut season was not too successful, it was not as bad as th record indicates. When the season began, Grady found himself with on three returning lettermen; senior forward Tommy Whalen, junior bac courtman Mike Deleo, and junior forward, and captain, Mark O'Malley. A the season progressed, several surprises occurred which promised a future f basketball on the hill. Deleo turned in one fine performance after anoth and was always in control of the backcourt operations. Mark O'Malley di played his outstanding shooting ability on several occasions and exercise his fine leadership in his role as captain. Mark was joined by his young brother Kevin who, although only a freshman, won the other startin guard berth. Kevin's outstanding shooting from the outside and deceptiv ballhandling have made him one of the more exciting players to watc Another surprise was that of the consistantly fine performances of soph more center Bob Maguire. Grady has a lot to look forward to, however, next year he will welcome back eleven of twelve members from this yea squad. Graduation will subtract only forward Tommy Whalen from th roster. The varsity players whose noticeable improvement and desire play merit them mention are Tom Bougeoise, Steve Campbell, David Fra ley, and Gary Eicorn. The 1970-71 season was definitely a productive one far as player development is concerned and Grady can expect nothing b success in his sophomore year as coach. The "Arrow" staff would like wish him and the team best of luck in the next season.

Track 1970-1971

The 1970 track season may not have been successful record wise, but it indeed gives a lot to look forward to. Although the team could manage only two wins in eight tries, the improvement in every member was obvious. With but one senior on the squad the underclassmen took over and kept up the spirit. Much credit must also go to the two fine coaches, Fr. Mahoney and Mr. Richard Farley, a former Boston University hurdler. Mr. Farley put the team on a rigorous practice schedule and had everyone working hard. Unfortunately he hurt his back and Fr. Mahoney was left with the jobs of two men. The fine performance of the track team is due mainly to the efforts of Fr. Mahoney. He spends many hours at St. Sebastian's and Boston College track facilities.

Last year's captain Matt McNally started out slowly, but came on strong particularly in the high jump and long jump where he was virtually unbeatable. The track team has been blessed for the last two years with a boy named Brian Hickey. Last season in eight meets he had a total of eighty-eight points, and in two years he has scored over two hundred points. Another standout was captain-elect Jay Harney. He placed in every race he ran and had a total of forty-one points. Other seniors who should come up with a big year in 1971 are: Robert Maloney discus and high jump; Brian Campbell hurdles and pole vault; Jay Fulham and Brian Ledoux shot put; Bob Dandrow and Richard D'Ambrosio, javelin; John Canon shot put and discus; Bob McGuane, two mile; and Mark O'Connor, a fine two miler.

Underclassmen who should in the scoring are; Peter Turk discus, Ted Cronin half mile; John Stanton and Bobby Cronin the mile run, Billy Shue, dash and broad jump; and freshman speedster Paul King.

The 1970 season was a building year, so the 1971 season is one to look forward to.

TENNIS TEAM – 1971

Having lost only two seniors from last years powerful tennis team, which compiled the best record in school history (10-2-1), this year's squad should again produce a fine record. Coach Father Contons has been working with the younger players and he seems to have done a fine job in building up future strength.

The only Senior on this year's team is Captain Frank Perry who has developed into one of the finer players in the school with a devastating spin serve. Billy Eagan, Roland Stewart, and John McGoldrick are fighting for the number-one spot with Eagan, a sophomore and winner of the Fall Tennis Tournament, holding the edge over Stewart, a junior, and sophomore McGoldrick. Rounding out the last few positions in the ladder are Chip Burke, Quinn and Owens are juniors and veterans of Father Contons squad while Gately is a sophomore but is expected to move into the ladder and play regularly. With all this talent in the Junior and Sophomore classes the future looks very bright for St. Seb's tennis. Despite the addition of some new competition to the schedule we look for another fine season from the tennis team.

A teacher's merit is valued today according to the interest which he shows in the school. He must not only be proficient in his field of study, he must also care about his students and even his surroundings. To accomplish all this and to be a priest as well would seem to require some sort of super being. However, the Reverend Daniel J. Barrett fulfills all of these qualifications with something to spare.

Each year Father Barrett spends most of his spare time on a one-man campaign to fix up and to clean up the school grounds. Father Barrett was active in ecology work long before it became a popular program. In the classroom this master of the gerund and the past participle is unrivaled. Father Barrett is both the most memorable and the best teacher a student can study under at St. Sebastian's.

Congratulations, Father Barrett, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of your ordination into the priesthood.

RIGHT ON!

Richard Packenham

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS A PRIEST – Congratulations Father Gilmartin. To the class of 1971, Fr. Gilmartin means friendship, leadership, a person with whom they can speak freely. He inspires boys to study, to be honest competitors, and to be honest with themselves. His field is mathematics, but into it he blends religion, philosophy, politics, and sports.

To the school, Fr. Gilmartin is the person who spearheads the entire athletic program. He made basketball grow at St. Sebastian's, and he develops his players in both body and spirit.

To Fr. Gilmartin the senior class owes much gratitude because there is much of him in every member of the class of '71. We wish you future success Father, and we hope that you will remember and pray for us all.

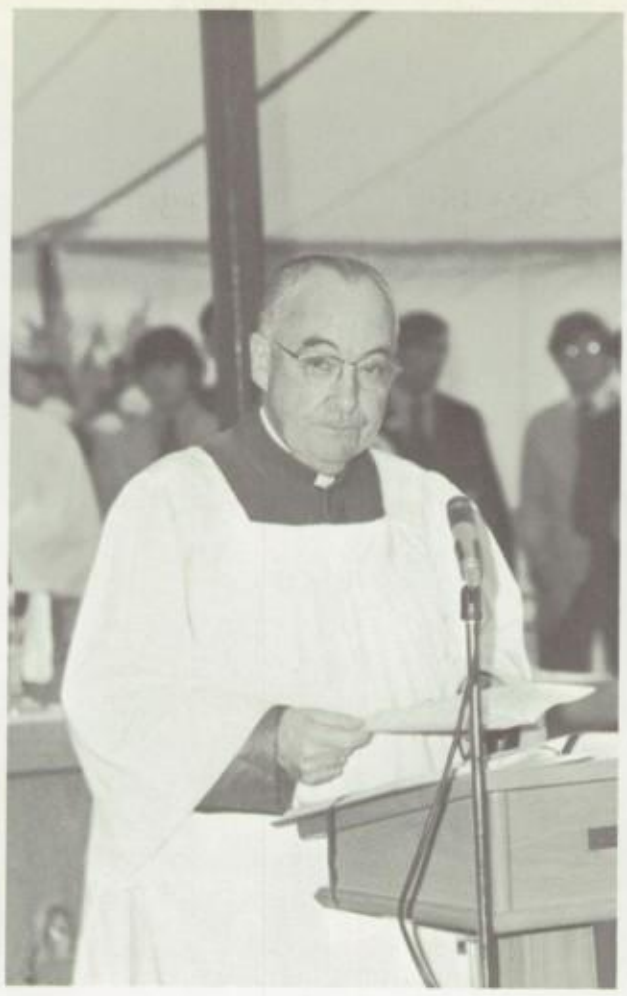
GRADUATION
1970



Salutatorian
Joseph Duffey

ledictorian
aul Myette

The title of The World's Greatest Guitarist is once again up for grabs. The title became available upon the death of the fantastic Jimi Hendrix. Hendrix died, rather ironically, from an overdose of common sleeping pills, hardly what one would expect from an openly professed drug taker. His death coincided, also most ironically, with the release of his newest album, featuring the performances of both him and the late Otis Redding at the Monterrey Pop Festival in 1967. It was this festival which first introduced Jimi Hendrix to America, although he was already a house-hold name in England. He was an instant sensation and an instant legend, a legend which continued to grow right up to his death.

Jimi Hendrix led two bands and produced seven albums during his all too brief career. His first group was the Jimi Hendrix Experience, which he formed in 1966. With Mitch Mitchell playing the drums and Noel Redding on bass, the band produced such memorable hits as "Purple Haze," "Fire," "Hey Joe," "All Along The Watchtower," "Foxey Lady," and countless others. Then on Jan. 1, 1970, Hendrix introduced his new band at the Filmore East niteclub in New York. The group, called Band Of Gypsies, featured Buddy Miles on the drums and Billy Cox playing a masterful bass guitar. The new group was an immediate success with "Machine Gun" and "Power To Love," two of its most notable songs. If not for Jimi's untimely death, Band Of Gypsies would no doubt have become as prolific as the Jimi Hendrix Experience had been.

Jimi Hendrix was, in all likelihood, the most original artist to enter rock and roll since the Beatles. One particular example of his originality is his adaptation of "The Star Spangled Banner," which he conceived during a jam session at the Woodstock Music and Art Festival. A Jimi Hendrix performance was best described as all-consuming and overwhelming. Hendrix completely dominated the entire arena in which he performed as only a few show people have ever done. He was defintely one of the most impressive artists of the past decade.

Jimi Hendrix expressed one primary desire in his life. "I want people to play my music after I die," he said once in an interview. Hendrix could rest assured that his wish will be granted. His music will become known as classic whenever one discusses rock and roll. It is a grave shame that such an illustrious career had to be cut short.

Richard Packenham

Janis Joplin is dead. Cold facts state that she died from an overdose of heroin. However, her music lives on. We, those who have survived her death must remember her for her music, and not for her pitiful addiction to drugs. Pearl, as she was known to her friends, sang with an easy and open style. Her musical genius was not demonstrated in what she sang, rather it was exposed in how she sang. Pearl's music was a combination of soul and blues. She sang it with a candid emotion never before known to a white blues singer. Janis is now dead and will never sing again. But she leaves us her music to live for her and for us for all time.

Friend's and friends.

Friend's beans. That's us. And Friend's are great, everyone knows that. Brick oven baked beans, new beans in maple syrup, packaged dry beans, and brown bread and brown gravy.

But we're a whole lot more than Friend's. We're LaTouraine coffee. And Maplewood beans. And new Maplewood coffee. And Puritan fruit syrups.

We're regular-blend coffee and 100% Columbian coffee and beans in tomato sauce and old fashioned molasses beans, and we're a whole variety of delicious fruit drink syrups. And we're Friend's.

Friend's and friends. From New England. And that's the best kind there is.

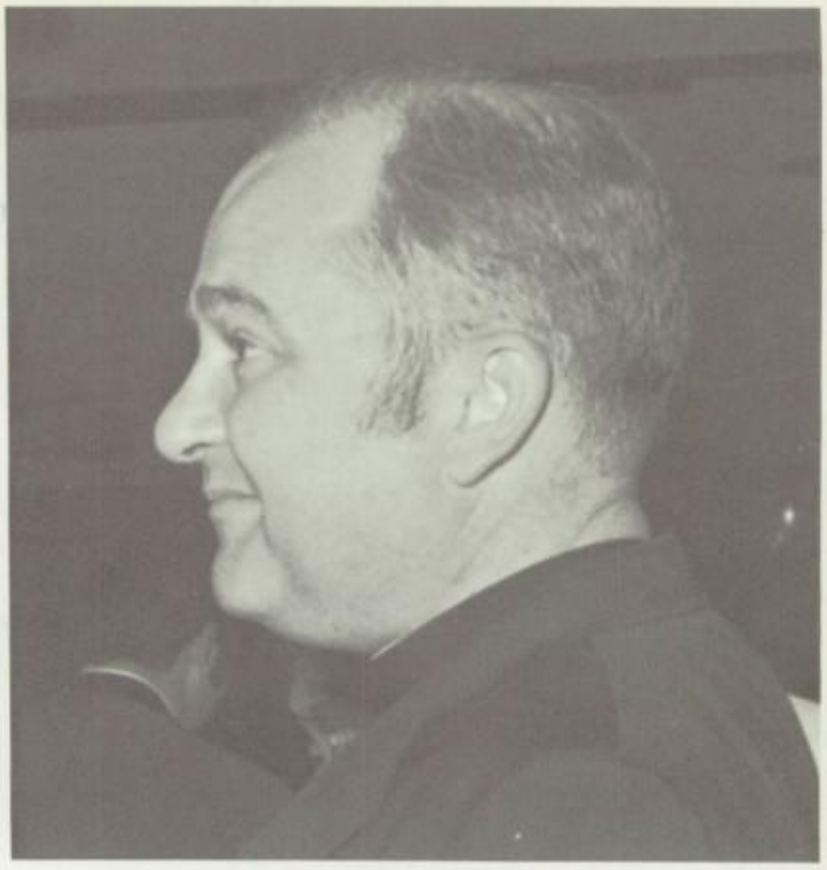
BEST WISHES TO THE CLASS OF 1971



REV. JOHN P. BOLES, Ed.D.

Saint Sebastian's Country Day School is giving up its present headmaster who will become Prosecretary for Religious Education for the Archdiocese of Boston at the direction of the Most Reverend Archbishop Umberto S. Medeiros.

The school and Father Boles have a reciprocal relationship in that each has marked the other for life. Each has given to the other a quality, a spirit, a savor without which neither would be quite the same. The attitude of Father Boles may be summarized in a single quote which he made to this writer: "I love the school" and I know it to have been "THE SCHOOL" for the greater part of his life.

He graduated from the school in 1947 at which time he entered St. John's Seminary to study for the priesthood of the Archidiocese of Boston. Having been ordained in 1955 he was assigned as instructor to the lower school in 1957 and remained in that position until 1960 when he became director of the same lower school. From 1961 to 1966 he was director of guidance for the whole school and was named headmaster under Monsignor John F. X. Harney in 1966 until his most recent assignment.

While discharging these obligations he sought every means available available to better prepare himself for his expanding rôle at the school. He was granted a Master's degree in Education at Boston College in 1959 and a Doctorate in 1965. From 1960 he has been teaching at the Graduate School at Boston College. He has been Consultant for Psychological Testing at Pope John Seminary in Weston, Dehon Seminary in Great Barrington and Mary Immaculate Seminary in Lenox, Massachusetts. He has been an Institutional Evaluation Consultant for the Catholic University of America and consultant for the National Catholic Education Association. He is a member of the board of directors for the Archdiocesan Guidance Council, he belongs to the American Psychological Association and Phi Delta Kappa. We lack the space to list his accomplishments and memberships beyond this encapsulated resume.

This outline does not begin, however, to tell the story of his impact on the school. He was instrumental in encouraging curriculum revision, in establishing cooperative efforts between the school and Boston College and the Country Day School of the Sacred Heart. With the cooperation of the Faculty, the extracurricula life at St. Sebastians has been diversified and enriched to the point where it truly offers something of interest and expansion for every student. The school is a member of the New England College and Secondary School Association of which Father Boles has been a member and chairman of the Evaluation Committee.

We have summarized his life and his contribution to St. Sebastians, but we have not really begun to hit upon the real testimony concerning Father John P. Boles. This must come from the student body and they are indeed expressing themselves for they have known and loved this man. For the student he has been instructor, guidance director, priest, sometimes disciplinarian and always a friend. He has worried over his students, counselled them, helped them into colleges, sympathized with them. He has taken boys into the school and has sent men into the various colleges. And he has done all this and more with the empathy born of his own undergraduate days of Sebastians. He has known the school as boy and man, as student and priest and he can say with all candor "I love the school". His life from early manhood has been a labor of that very love.

The class of 1971 happily and respectfully offers its congratulation to Father John P. Boles as public witness to its appreciation of what he has been to the class and to the school. His presence on this campus will be much missed by all who come after, but his influence will remain, his wisdom and love for the school will perdure. He has given to the school, a new character which has become the spirit of St. Sebastians. It will be built upon, it will change with the times, it will develop, but there will always be at "the school" something of John P. Boles.

The just man is like the fruit tree planted by living waters: he will bear his fruit in due time. Father Boles will be remembered by this class, by the undergraduates, by the almuni as a skilled director-teacher-counsellor and friend. He has left his mark on scores of graduates who are now finishing their college lives or are starting in the world of business or science. These are the men who are even now carrying on the traditions of St. Sebastians in the world of men and John P. Boles has contributed much to their success and spirit. Let him be remembered for his good works.

It is impossible and unrealistic to attempt to thank Father Boles. He does not expect thanks: this was his way of life; he does not expect congratulations: this was expected of him; he does not welcome praise: this was his responsibility and he undertook it joyfully. What he does expect is that St. Sebastians will be a great secondary school, full of wisdom and learning; he expects that the injunction of the Psalmist will be heard on this campus: "Get Wisdom, my son, and in thy getting, get understanding". He expects that the the Saint Sebastian's family will grow in love and honor and sense of responsibility. He expects and dreams that this fine school will produce men of character and breeding and dignity as it has done in the past. As this comes to be realized it will be thanks enough, it will be congratulations in full measure, it will be praise beyond all telling. For this, he has given his life and his priesthood and must now go into even deeper and wider responsibilities. He goes with our best wishes and our blessings, which we give as a family blesses its own father. May the Lord prosper his work and grant him length of days; may he find consolation in good works well done; may he be enriched by the knowledge that he has well and faithfully discharged his obligations to the school and to the priesthood; may he cherish the proud records of the Saint Sebastians men whom he has affected and whom the school will continue to affect in a future prepared for by this priest-educator. Let those of us who remain at "the school" be loyal to his memory.

REV. JOHN P. BOLES: ad multos annos

Well done! Good and faithful servant.
